The address to the graduates was delivered by Mrs. Coralle Franklin Cook, member of the board of education of the District of Columbya, who urged the graduates to show by their conduct and lives after leaving school that the Washington public school system ranks among the best. "You have no right to these certificates today, said she, "unless you are ready to see in them a promise of what you have done. You must begin to think of your future, of how you are to make a living, and you must learn to think of others. You must keep constantly before you the thought that if you are going to become worth-while men and women you must begin by being worth-while boys and girls."

The records show that some children never go to school days for some of you the hought that if you are going to become worth-while men and women you must begin by being worth-while boys and girls."

Congress Ordered Suit.

The suit was instituted by the gov-ernment in conformity with a resolu-tion by Congress. It dealt only with actual settlers, because the land was ple of the Green Forest not capable of settlement.

Valuable Timber Land.

It was pointed out further that much of the land was more valuable for timber than for settlement, and thus would For all these reasons the court stated that it was proper that the company should be enjoined from disposing of any of the lands until Congress could deal with the new conditions which had arisen since the grant was made.

Little Stories

Old Granny Fox Tries a Sharp Trick.

Granny wanted those three little octual settlers in 160-acre tracts at Possums. Yes, sir, she certainly did. $2.50 an acre are permitted under the The more she thought about them the decision after Congress has had six more she wanted them. That price and settlement, and also denied isn't Granny's way at all. She is too old and wise to be discouraged by one failure. So she kept thinking and thinking, trying to find some new plan to fool and catch Bumpy, Frumpy and Grumpy.

ernment in conformity with a resolution by Congress. It dealt only with lands unsold. It appeared in the evidence that some of the land had been sold in 40,000-acre tracts for as much as $7.50 an acre. Yesterday's decision preserved any right the government may have to bring suit touching land already sold.

The court found that Congress, in making the grant, had made no positive provisions as to settlement. Consideration also was given to the argument of the railroad that large portions of the property could not be sold to other innocent and heedless little peotice. of the property could not be sold to other innocent and heedless little people of the Green Forest.

Very early, before the Black Shadows had left the Green Forest and jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun had begun his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky, Granny went to a certain little open place not very far from the hollow tree where the three little Possums were living. There she stretched herself out on the ground quite as if she were dead. Her red cloak was all mussed up and dirty. Her eyes were closed all but a peeny, weeny bit. She did not move a muscle. She certainly looked for all the world as if there wasn't a spark of life in her.

"Now," thought she, "if those Possums see me they surely will think

He gently tickled Granny's nose by blowing on it, until finally Granny just had to wrinkle it a teeny, weeny bit. She couldn't help herself. "What did I tell you?" laughed the

She couldn't help herself.

"What did I tell you?" laughed the Merry Little Breezes as they danced away.

After they had gone Granns lay there for a long, long time. Old Mr. Toad came along and looked at her. "Huh!" said he, "I wonder whom she is trying to fool now." Then he hopped over to a big stick and worked his way under it where he could be out of the sun and still see all that might happen. Ol Mistah Buzzard looked down from high up in the blue, blue sky and grinned. Peter happened along, but saw Granny in time and sat up at a safe distance. Peter had had that trick tried on him and knew all about it.

"I wonder whom she thinks she can fool," thought Peter. "I wonder now if it can be those silly little Possums. I believe I'll watch and see."

So Peter crawled into a hollow log, and once more all was as still as still could be.
